Description

Oil on panel depicting one of the best-known works by Jan Gossaert, a leading master of Netherlandish painting during the transition to the Renaissance. The composition is based on an original painted around 1520--now lost--of which numerous contemporary copies and variations survive. In this version, painted on an oak panel, we see the delicacy of the figures and the attention to detail--hallmarks of the 16th-century Flemish tradition.
