Description

Oval mirror in the Louis XVI style - Napoleon III period
An elegant oval mirror from the Napoleon III period, which subtly echoes the decorative vocabulary of the Louis XVI style. Its wooden frame, gilded with stucco, features a delicate succession of rows of pearls and generously sculpted ovals, elegantly highlighting the softness of its oval shape. The gilding, luminous and warm, beautifully accentuates the relief of the decoration. It retains its beautiful beveled glass, adding depth and brilliance to the piece, as well as its original parquet inlay on the back, a particularly noteworthy detail that attests to the authenticity of this lovely piece. In perfect condition, this mirror possesses immense charm: decorative enough to adorn a wall all on its own, yet with a classic elegance that allows it to fit
