18th-century Tabernacle Door

Description

Carved oak tabernacle door, France, 18th century. Tabernacle door in oak, finely carved in high relief, adorned with a Eucharistic composition depicting a chalice surmounted by the consecrated host, sheltered beneath a canopy with lambrequins and draped curtains. The scene is framed by rich drapery falling on either side. The piece retains traces of its original polychromy as well as a beautiful period patina. The original lock opening and the natural shrinkage cracks in the wood attest to its age. This door originates from the Charente region. 18th-century French work. Material: carved oak. Period: 18th century. This door is a remarkable example of the religious art of the period, in which the quality of the carving highlights the Eucharistic symbolism at the heart
