

Chinese Drum-shaped Stool Made Of Precious Wood - 19th Century

700 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Solid wood

Diameter : 34 cm

Height : 34 cm

Description

An elegant Chinese drum-shaped stool made of exotic wood, likely huanghuali or a similar species, dating from the 19th century. Its harmonious design, with simple and balanced lines, is characteristic of scholar's furniture from the late Qing Dynasty. The band is adorned with a delicate carved motif of bats, symbols of happiness, prosperity, and longevity in Chinese tradition. The openwork structure rests on wide, curved legs connected by a circular crossbar, giving the piece a sense of visual lightness while ensuring excellent stability. The circular top is inlaid with a slab of veined gray marble, providing an elegant contrast to the warm patina of the wood. This piece can be used as a stool, a small seat, or a side table. A beautiful piece of antique Chinese furniture, sought after for the

Dealer

Thomas Chabolle Antiquités

Arts décoratifs - Beaux arts

Tel : 06 76 84 42 89

Marché Paul Bert - Stand 160 allée 4 - 110 rue des Rosiers
Saint-Ouen 93400

quality of its wood, the finesse of its carving, and its decorative character.Period: 19th century.Origin: China.Materials: Huanghuali-type exotic wood, marble top.Decoration: A bat carved on the band, a traditional symbol of happiness and good fortune.Condition: In good overall condition, with a beautiful antique patina and slight signs of wear consistent with its age.Dimensions:Height: 34 cmDiameter: 34 cm