Description

This 19th-century oil on canvas depicts a lady of high social standing wearing a dark dress and a lace collar, adorned with a beautiful diamond brooch. The work is set in a large frame gilded with gold leaf and carved with floral motifs. Style and Period: This painting is characteristic of the Franco-Belgian school of the second half of the 19th century, a time when portraits of bourgeois women were very much in vogue. Similar Artists: The style of this work is similar to that of painters such as Claudius Jacquand and Giacomo Fiamminghi, known for their detailed portraits from the same period. Framing: The painting is set in a richly carved gilded frame, typical of 19th-century frames. Jean-Francois Portaels is well known in Belgium for his depictions of elegant ladies.
