Description

A charming Louis XV-style marquetry sewing table, made in France in the first half of the 20th century. Resting on four elegant, curved legs, it captivates with the quality of its precious wood veneer and its rich marquetry decorations. The hinged tabletop features a delicate scene of a bustling village, crafted in marquetry using various types of wood. When opened, it reveals an ingeniously designed interior comprising a central mirror, two side compartments, and two front drawers, providing storage for sewing accessories, jewelry, or toiletries. The drawer fronts are adorned with radiant floral marquetry and feature bronze handles. This refined piece elegantly combines functionality with high-quality cabinetmaking and will naturally find its place in a bedroom, boudoir, or living
