Description

A charming depiction of a young mother holding her sleeping child on her lap. The young mother is sitting in a chair. She wears a lace-trimmed bonnet, a shawl draped over her shoulders, a laced bodice, and a very full skirt, flaring out in wide folds. Elegant heeled shoes, indicative of a person of distinction. Very beautiful carved wooden frame from the Louis XIII period. Original gilding. An old printed beige/brown cartouche reads: Parizeau (Philippe Louis), Paris, 1740-1801. This may be an 18th-century counterprint.
