Description

18th-Century French SchoolIn the Style of Antoine Watteau (1684-1721)Oil on canvas in an oval format depicting an elegant courtly scene in the style of Antoine Watteau. In the foreground, a young gentleman, kneeling, converses with a young woman dressed in a white and pink satin gown, holding a fan. The two figures are set against a lively, verdant landscape, while in the background a couple strolls along the banks of a river, reinforcing the poetic and refined atmosphere characteristic of galant gatherings of the 18th century.The composition stands out for the delicacy of the expressions, the grace of the poses, and a palette of soft tones--characteristics of the Rococo aesthetic inspired by the work of Watteau.The painting is presented in an elegant oval gilded wooden frame.Historical re-stretching
