Bronze statuette of THOT-IBIS with green patina
Egypt, Ptolemaic period, 332-30 B.C. Bronze statuette depicting a crouching ibis wearing the Atef crown, identifying it as Thoth, god of the moon, magic, wisdom, and the sciences. The long, slightly parted beak is gently curved; the circular eyes likely once held inlays of a different material, which are now missing. The legs are folded, with talons featuring finely detailed claws. The S-shaped neck flows into an elegantly curved body whose plumage has been cold-engraved. Very good overall condition
Height 8 cm including the base From a private French collection. A certificate of authenticity will be provided to the buyer. Taxes and customs duties are included in the shipping cost for international shipments
