Description

Carved walnut boat-shaped bed - Directoire period, circa 1800 An elegant boat-shaped bed made of solid walnut, crafted in the very early 19th century. It captivates with its graceful lines and rich carved decoration featuring flowers, rosettes, and foliage scrolls, characteristic of this period. The slender, finely carved headboard posts lend a beautiful verticality to the piece. The headboard and footboard feature floral bas-relief decoration, accentuated by crossbars that enhance the elegance of the silhouette. The warm grain of the walnut and its beautiful original patina highlight the quality of the cabinetmaking. The bed is in good overall condition. Note: there are two discreet previous restorations on the carved elements of the posts, visible in the photographs, which do not affect the bed's structural integrity
