Description

Empire-period mercury-gilt bronze clock featuring a superb original matte and burnished gold finish. It depicts Cupid, the God of Love, holding an arrow, accompanied by a quiver and bow; other motifs include a torch within a laurel wreath, a butterfly frieze (an Empire symbol), floral garlands, and columns topped with flaming urns. A magnificent floral urn--visited by two butterflies--adorns the front of the clock's plinth. Silk-suspension movement, serviced by a clockmaker and complete with pendulum and key. Enamel dial with a minor restoration near the numeral VIII; original Breguet-style hands. Height: 30 cm / Base: 23 x 10 cm. UPS delivery.
