Description

An elegant pair of Genoese hand mirrors from the mid-18th century, finely carved from wood and embellished with rich pure gold gilding.

The frames, characterized by the typical Louis XV style, are enlivened by sinuous volutes, plant motifs, and a harmonious mixed-line profile that reflects the high quality of 18th-century Ligurian carving. Their compact size makes them objects of great refinement, ideal for enhancing a classic setting or a collection of antique furnishings.

The mirrors retain their original period glass, marked by the natural patina of age--a detail particularly prized by collectors as it confirms their authenticity and charm.

The original gilding displays a splendid antique patina, perfectly in harmony with the quality of the carving and the history of the piece.
