Description

This armchair and its matching footrest were designed by the French design duo Adrien Audoux and Frida Minet in the 1950s. This iconic set perfectly captures the aesthetic of the French Riviera of that era, combining casual elegance with natural materials. The frames of both pieces are made entirely of rattan and bamboo, materials characteristic of Audoux & Minet's work. The set comes with removable cushions covered in a blue-and-white checkered fabric, adding a touch of color and comfort. A "Meubles Audoux-Minet Golfe-Juan" authenticity plaque is visible on the frame, confirming the set's provenance. The set is in good overall condition, retaining its original patina that bears witness to its history. The rattan frame remains sturdy and functional, while the cushions provide comfortable seating.
