Description

An exceptional and elegant pair of crystal bowls (or fruit bowls on a pedestal) with their original lids, made in England during the Victorian era (19th century). These prestigious pieces are distinguished by the high quality and considerable thickness of their sturdy crystal. Each piece features a remarkable classical design:
The Main Bowl: A large circular bowl featuring a richly lobed and undulating upper rim shaped like a shell, adorned with a complex geometric cut in alternating facets.
The Lid: Fitting perfectly onto the rim, it features the same cutting motifs and is topped by a large, elegant fretel in the shape of a cut pyramidal pinnacle.
The Pedestal: A short, baluster-shaped shaft resting on a wide, circular base richly carved with diamond-pointed motifs, providing
