Description

A charming side table or coffee table with a polylobed (undulating) shape in the Louis XV style, dating from the late 19th century. This piece is ideal as a coffee table, end table, or chic nightstand. It stands out for its top made of breccia marble in delicate shades of beige, ochre, and violet, accentuated by a rich, gilded, and chiseled bronze gallery. The piece rests on three long, curved legs typical of the Rocaille style. Nestled between the legs is a second lower crossbar-style top, featuring a butterfly-wing (or four-leaf clover) veneer scroll design, also encircled by a bronze band. Richly adorned with gilded and chiseled bronze. Tall foliage and floral motifs on the side posts. Scalloped crossbars accented with bronze fillets. Legs ending in elegant gilded bronze feet.
