Description

An elegant Louis XVI-style bookcase made in the 1930s, crafted from rosewood veneer and featuring geometric marquetry decoration. It opens with two glass doors revealing an interior fitted with four shelves, ideal for displaying books, objets d'art, or collections. The rounded side panels, tapered legs ending in brass feet, lock plates adorned with laurel motifs, and the simple, refined lines all attest to its high-quality craftsmanship. The cabinet is topped with its original breccia marble, which has undergone a discreet, earlier restoration that is barely visible and does not compromise either its aesthetics or its structural integrity. The marble measures: 2 cm thick, 110 cm long, 38 cm wide. The piece is in very good overall condition, with a beautiful patina. The lock and key are functional. Cannot be
