Description

Oak desk for a couple, late 19th century, signed Stolzenberg. This antique desk, both highly functional and impressive, features two lockable drum compartments, four side drawers for hanging files, three central drawers, a built-in compartment for an inkwell and pen with a sliding lid, as well as two sliding side shelves. The desk retains its original green leather writing surface and features magnificent side panels, enhanced by a rich oak patina. A piece that is both practical and decorative, with a strong architectural presence, it is ideal for an office, a study, or a commercial space. In good antique condition, with visible signs of wear due to its age and use. The leather writing surface shows signs of wear and marks, and one corner of a drawer is slightly damaged, as shown in the
