Description

A pair of Barocchetto-style nightstands, made in Italy in the late 19th century. These pieces feature an open compartment beneath the top, ideal for storing small items or books. The doors are embellished with a central carving depicting a bird perched on a branch, a detail that enhances the already elaborate design of the surfaces. The sides and curved legs are decorated with leafy branches, giving the piece an organic and harmonious appearance. These nightstands are a typical example of the craftsmanship of the era, expressing an aesthetic that combines elegance and functionality. Product condition: Due to its age and wear, this item requires restoration and refinishing. We strive to present the actual condition of the piece as fully as possible through the photos.
