Description

Baroque frame in carved and lacquered wood, with gilded leaf motifs, made in Italy in the early 18th century. The piece stands out for its refined and complex craftsmanship: the inner frame is adorned with carvings of laurel leaves that convey a sense of classicism and symmetry. The exterior, on the other hand, features elaborate openwork with swirling leaf motifs and volutes, typical of the Baroque period. There are some minor missing pieces, which, however, do not compromise the overall aesthetic of the object. This frame is ideal for showcasing works of art or mirrors, blending harmoniously into classic interior settings. Product condition: This item requires restoration due to its age and wear.
