Description

Berkel Model 31 flywheel slicer, manufactured in the United Kingdom, featuring an elegant red finish. This model exemplifies the quality and precision engineering that have made the Berkel brand synonymous with reliability in the slicer industry. Its sturdy construction and classic lines make this machine not only functional but also a design piece suitable for professional kitchens and modern antique collections. The hand-crank mechanism ensures a uniform cut, ideal for cured meats and other meats, while the metal construction guarantees long-lasting durability. The Model 31 slicer represents a piece of industrial history, reflecting the craftsmanship and innovation of the period in which it was produced.
