Description

An elegant Louis XV-style "Cartel" wall clock, made in Venice around the mid-18th century. The piece features a finely lacquered wooden frame, embellished with rich, chiseled gilt-bronze appliqués. The circular dial, made of white enameled porcelain, features Roman numerals for the hours and Arabic numerals for the minutes, with exquisitely refined openwork hands in gilded bronze. The clock's sculpted and dramatic silhouette lends the piece a striking decorative impact, enhanced by the quality of the carving and the refined polychromatic lacquerwork. An example of high-quality 18th-century Venetian cabinetmaking, this important Louis XV clock is a prestigious piece of furniture, ideal for classical interiors, antique collections, and historic residences. A piece of great elegance and
