Description

Four-legged stool made of solid pine, France, 1960s. Its thick, circular seat rests on four slightly flared cylindrical legs, giving the stool great stability. The wood grain, highlighted by its original honey-colored patina, gives it a warm and natural character. Simple and sturdy, this stool exemplifies the utilitarian and authentic aesthetic of mountain furniture and the modernist interiors of the era. Shows signs of use and a beautiful patina from age. France, circa 1960.
