Description

A rare and elegant Empire-period console table in flamed mahogany veneer on an oak frame, refinedly illustrating the First Empire's taste for understated lines and balanced proportions. It rests on two curved front legs and two straight rear legs, joined by a curved crossbar. The legs are accented with chiseled and gilded bronze claws, adding a subtle touch of refinement. The top is finished with its original veined black marble, which harmonizes perfectly with the warmth of the wood. A piece of furniture of exceptional craftsmanship, this console table captivates with the beauty of its materials, the finesse of its veneer, and the timeless elegance of its design. It will naturally find its place in an entryway, living room, or study, in both classic and contemporary interiors. Dimensions: Length:
