Description

A superb example of 19th-century country furniture, this folding desk is crafted from solid camphor wood and adorned with brass trim along all edges, combining sturdiness and elegance. The flap is adorned with a central brass plaque. Ingeniously designed, the lower drawer activates the mechanism for the upper flap, which opens to reveal a retractable compartment equipped with compartments and even a mirror on top. The writing surface is covered in cognac-colored leather and conceals a charming secret compartment. We have his keys. The soft hue and rich scent of camphor wood are what make this writing desk so beautiful.
