He was Charles Audry, a renowned dermatologist and venereologist from Lyon and a professor at the Lyon Faculty of Medicine. Details Material: Bronze, likely sand-cast, with original black patina. Iconography: On the right: Relief profile of Prof. Audry + inscription "Prof. C. AVDRY 1865-1934" On the left: A standing female figure, "?????????" = Aphrodite in Greek. The serpent coiled at her feet evokes Asclepius/Aesculapius, the symbol of medicine. This is a classical homage: Aphrodite represents venereology, Prof. Audry's specialty.
