Description

A small "hunting sideboard"--the correct term is an 18th-century light oak display sideboard. This model stands on plinths and features generously molded double-hinged doors. The upper crossbar is arched and features two "knife" drawers at each end. Rounded front legs with fine molding. Perfect original ironwork on the doors: hinges, lock, and a superb period espagnolette. Antique marble top: Flanders red, "bec de corbin" pattern. (Perfect condition) High-quality Parisian craftsmanship from the mid-18th century. Attractive size, in very fine condition.
