Description

Damascened steel cup from Toledo, with a polished base, featuring a striking heraldic design in damascening on a black background: The large double-headed eagle of St. John, symbol of King Charles V of Spain, who was Holy Roman Emperor and Lord of the Netherlands. Note the lovely silver-inlaid golden fleece...The central medallion features a quarterly shield of Castile and León (castles and lions). Spanish craftsmanship of Toledo tradition, style of works by the Zuloaga workshop. Note the extraordinary quality of damascening--bright and matte gold, silver, and simulate gemstones; Late 19th century or 1900. 16 cm x 1.5 cm. 330 g. Good overall condition, minor wear on the black background (red arrows). Immediate purchase: payment accepted via credit card or PayPal. -- eclectic --
