Description

Empire-period walnut chest of drawers - Detached columns - Gilded bronze
An elegant Empire-period walnut chest of drawers, characterized by the simplicity of its architectural lines and the beauty of its flamed grain. Its refined decoration and harmonious proportions make it a remarkable example of early 19th-century French furniture. The front features three drawers, including a waist drawer above two large storage drawers. The fronts are adorned with bronze pull knobs and an original lock plate, emphasizing the understated elegance characteristic of the Empire style. The side panels are adorned with freestanding columns topped with gilded bronze rings, resting on square bases finished with bronze feet. The warm grain of the walnut, enhanced by a beautiful antique patina,
