Description

Empire-style mahogany nightstand - Marble top - Detached columns - Early 20th century
A charming Empire-style mahogany nightstand that elegantly showcases the simple, refined lines of early 19th-century French furniture. Its compact size and harmonious proportions make it as decorative as it is functional. The piece features a belt-style drawer and a door that opens to reveal interior storage space. The front is adorned with bronze laurel wreath handles, typical of the Empire style, while the side panels are decorated with freestanding columns topped with finely chiseled bronze capitals. The top is crowned with a veined white marble surface, offering an elegant and durable surface. The tapered legs are finished with bronze feet, providing a refined touch to the overall design. This nightstand can also be used as
