Description

Large, finely chiseled decorative bronze vase with a brown patina, resting on an elegant Griotte marble base. Inspired by the neoclassical repertoire of the Louis XVI style, this remarkable composition is supported by two winged cupids in the round, entwined around a naturalistic tree trunk, holding the vase with great finesse. The openwork handles, adorned with ram's heads, floral garlands, and rich decorative motifs, attest to the high quality of the chiseling work. The patina highlights the forms, the anatomy of the putti, and the richness of the ornamentation, creating a subtle play of light that underscores the overall elegance of the piece. Created in the late 19th century, this work follows in the tradition of the great Parisian bronze casters, who skillfully reinterpreted 18th-century models. With its
