Description

Patina-Finished Bronze Sculpture of a Horse in Motion, Early 20th Century An elegant patinated bronze sculpture depicting a horse in motion on a naturalistic base. The animal is depicted in a dynamic pose, with one front leg raised and its head slightly turned to the side, giving the piece a beautiful sense of movement and character. The mane, tail, and musculature are finely modeled, reflecting the influence of early 20th-century animal sculpture. The naturalistic base, adorned with textured ground and a small detail of a tree stump, adds depth and balance to the composition. The bronze's dark patina lends the sculpture an elegant, antique presence and highlights the reliefs of the modeling. This decorative bronze sculpture will look perfect in a library, an office, on a mantelpiece, in a display
