Description

Large Imari porcelain bowl on a foot.
18th-century China. Round and hollow-bodied with a foot, this porcelain bowl features a particularly refined decoration in the traditional Imari color palette. The polychrome decoration consists of underglaze blue, iron red, and rich gold highlights. It depicts numerous flowers--primarily peonies and plum blossoms, among others--as well as leafy scrollwork. This bowl is adorned with openwork, leaf-motif mounts in chiseled and gilded bronze in the mid-19th-century Louis XV style. The mounts consist of a base, handles, and a rim. The mounts feature scrollwork, seeds, foliage, flowers, pompons, and drapery--all very finely chiseled. The gilding is original. Note a small, barely visible crack in the bowl. Dimensions: L 53 x D
