Description

An exceptional and imposing pair of lidded Meissen porcelain vases, richly decorated with hand-painted scenes of courtly life and hunting within large cartouches, enhanced by delicate gilding and elegant polychrome rocaille motifs. The side handles, mounts, bases, and rims in gilded bronze lend the set an added touch of refinement. The lids are topped with bronze putti figures. With their spectacular dimensions and the quality of their craftsmanship, these vases constitute a remarkable work from the Meissen manufactory, in the style of the 18th century. The richness of the decoration, the finesse of the painting, and the elegance of the mounts make them first-rate pieces for both collecting and display. Large pairs of richly decorated Meissen porcelain vases are particularly sought after on
