Description

Antique desk inkwell (writing set) made of bronze, ideal for complementing the decor of a classic-style office or a cabinet of curiosities. This distinctive piece features magnificent chiseled work with gadroons, palmettes, and geometric friezes, typical of the 19th century (Empire and Restoration styles). Two side inkwells: Each is equipped with a richly chiseled removable lid topped with a spinning top-shaped knob. They still contain their original removable inner cups (ideal for pouring ink into). A central compartment: Features an openwork lid (pen holder or hourglass/powder dish for drying ink). Four pen holders: Small circular openings built into the top for holding your nibs or pen holders vertically. A large built-in pen tray: The curved front base serves as a horizontal tray for
