Description

Antique firwood armoire cabinet with two doors, each consisting of a single panel, with beautiful molded pilasters on the corner posts, a decorative element typical of the 17th-century Florentine style. A wide, projecting, molded upper cornice crowns the structure. The interior, organized with shelves, retains the original wrought-iron lock, of fine workmanship, with its corresponding shaped keyhole. The piece has undergone conservative restoration work to the base and hinges, consistent with its era and history of use. Provenance: Tuscany, 17th century Dimensions: 110 x 48 cm, height 187 cm
