Description

Period: 21st century Designer: Sophie Destrée, known as Ephide This signed and dated Indian ink drawing on paper lends this hand a Cubist sculptural quality. Sophie Destrée, 2005, early period... A true study of strength and structure, this original drawing transcends simple anatomical representation to offer a resolutely architectural interpretation of the hand. The rigorous rendering of volumes in graphite creates a striking interplay of light and shadow, where each joint appears carved from the material in the style of a Cubist sculpture. Signed and dated by the artist, this unique graphic work plays on the precise control of its contours to establish a strong visual presence. A drawing with character that will take pride of place in a modern art collection or on the walls of a contemporary,
