Description

A small, Bordeaux-style "tombeau" chest of drawers made of acacia wood, dating from the 18th century. Topped with a wooden top featuring a beak-of-corbin-molded edge, it opens at the front with four drawers arranged in three rows, two of which are in the top row. Its curved, scroll-cut crossbars rest on four shell-shaped legs. Its curved sides feature panels with intricate scrollwork. This small chest of drawers retains balanced and elegant proportions. Its warm, honey-toned patina--typical of acacia wood--makes it a charming and rare piece of furniture, as acacia is rarely used in cabinetmaking, except in the Bordeaux region and even then only sparingly. Good condition, with standard restoration and maintenance work; locks are missing. We ship worldwide; please
