Description

Antique oil painting on canvas with a period frame made of gilded and carved wood, depicting a French noblewoman. The woman is portrayed in full face, with large dark eyes and a serene expression; her voluminous black hair is gathered high on her head in the 18th-century style. She wears a dress with a wide square neckline embellished with a finely detailed white lace trim and a bodice with gold and pearl accents. The background is completely dark and neutral--a technique used to highlight the luminosity of the skin and the vibrant colors of the garments. The painting is set in a striking oval frame of gilded wood, decorated with carvings of overlapping plant motifs and foliage. Provenance: 18th-century France. General Condition: Good condition. Dimensions: 75x90 cm. Documentation:
