Description

The "711" sofa, designed by Tito Agnoli for Cinova in the late 1960s, is a piece that combines elegance and functionality. The wooden frame is designed to last, while the seat is supported by sturdy metal springs, ensuring comfort and durability. The mattress is upholstered in fabric, and the red faux leather exterior adds a touch of vivacity and style. Distinctive features include the armrests and backrest, which can be transformed into practical side tables, further enhancing the sofa's versatility. Built-in wheels allow for easy movement, making it ideal for dynamic spaces. In excellent overall condition, it shows very little sign of wear, demonstrating the care taken in its maintenance. Product Condition: The item is in good condition, with minor signs of wear. We try to present the item's actual condition as accurately
