Description

This elegant Moud Das Persian rug, made in the 1970s, stands out for the delicacy of its design and the balance of its composition. Its richly designed central medallion is set within a field adorned with a delicate scattering of stylized floral motifs, framed by multiple finely crafted borders. The shades of beige, midnight blue, celadon blue, and brown create a harmonious and timeless ensemble, characteristic of the craftsmanship of the Moud workshops. Its dense weave and high-quality wool give it excellent shape retention and great durability. Size : 335x360 cm Condition : As is. Stains and yellowing present in the beige background. Localized wear in one area, visible in the last two photographs. Worn borders and fringes cut flush, slightly frayed. Despite these signs of use, this rug
