Description

Max Savy (1918-2010) A Certain Idea of God Oil on canvas, signed lower right. 146 × 114 cm. A major work by Max Savy, A Certain Idea of God exemplifies the unique style of this artist from the Languedoc region, known for his landscapes imbued with poetry and spirituality. Set in a Mediterranean countryside dominated by a rocky outcrop reminiscent of Cathar citadels, the artist presents a symbolic vision where the rural world meets the biblical narrative. The figures, bathed in a supernatural light, move through a composition of great narrative power, while olive trees, vineyards, and cypresses anchor the scene in the land of Occitania so dear to the painter. With its ambition, the quality of its execution, and its iconographic richness, this painting ranks among Max Savy's most important
