Description

A charming bronze hourglass dating from the 1970s, crafted in an elegant neoclassical style. Resting on a structure with four small columns, it is adorned with remarkable, finely chiseled pinecones that serve as capitals and bases. A symbol of eternity, prosperity, and rebirth since ancient times, the pinecone lends this object a refined decorative presence. The hourglass consists of two beautifully transparent blown-glass bulbs containing white sand that flows perfectly smoothly. The piece features a beautiful antique patina--warm and satiny--that highlights the quality of the bronze and the finesse of its engraving. Both a scientific, decorative, and symbolic object, this hourglass will naturally find its place in a library, an office, a cabinet of curiosities, or an interior--whether
