

PROANTIC
LE PLUS BEAU CATALOGUE D'ANTIQUITES

Painting "path Leading To The Sea," Oil On Panel, In The Style Of Jean Pillement - Fin

1 800 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Très bon état

Width : 48

Height : 40

Depth : 7

Description

This rare work displays all the poetic and delicate charm characteristic of late 19th-century artists. Here, the painter creates a landscape of great gentleness, where diffused light envelops every element in radiance. In the foreground, a path draws the eye toward figures--discreet yet essential--who bring the scene to life and highlight the majestic scale of the surrounding natural landscape. On the right, large rocks topped with vegetation stand alongside a group of slender trees, their foliage finely rendered, rising like a curtain of greenery whose shades of green attest to the artist's virtuosity in the art of detail. Further on, the horizon opens onto a calm expanse of water, bordered by gently sloping cliffs, while a sky tinged with shades of gray and ochre radiates a peaceful, almost meditative

Dealer

Antiquités Lecomte

Antiquaire Généraliste

Tel : 02.40.57.63.83

Mobile : 06.38.26.81.12

33 La Bosse des Landes

HERIC 44810

atmosphere, typical of the artist's Romantic sensibility. This oil on panel, signed on the reverse in homage to Jean Pillement, is enhanced by a richly ornamented carved frame, whose volutes, foliage, and floral motifs in deep gilding reinforce the piece's precious character and harmonize beautifully with the delicacy of the landscape. A decorative piece of the highest order, it will immediately add value to a classical interior or an 18th-century art collection.Period: Late 19th centuryIn good overall conditionShipping available in France and internationally upon request.Dimensions:Width: 48 cmDepth: 7 cmHeight: 40 cmReference 599V