

Pair Of Leaded-glass Stained-glass Windows From Around 1900

950 EUR

Period : 20th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Glass

Width : 50

Height : 190

Description

Pair of large leaded-glass stained-glass windows, set in their 1900s-era oak frames. Each panel features a geometric design. The center consists of clear cathedral glass panes that allow plenty of light to pass through, while the border is enlivened by an alternating pattern of blue diamond-shaped cabochons and yellow teardrop-shaped pieces, set against an amber background. These stained-glass panels can be incorporated into a door, a partition, or a skylight, or used as backlit decorative elements. In good overall condition.
