Description

A rare and monumental pair of five-light altar candlesticks, made in Tuscany during the 18th century. Crafted from finely carved wood and covered with an elegant silver plating, they represent a refined example of Baroque liturgical furnishings intended for the most prestigious churches and oratories.

The design is characterized by an abundance of volutes, acanthus leaves, and ornamental motifs carved with great skill, which lend the piece a remarkable sense of dynamism and a striking visual presence. The five candle holders, harmoniously distributed, enhance the structure by creating a balanced interplay of solid and void spaces, while the silver-plated surface reflects light, highlighting the quality of the carving. Its generous dimensions and high-quality
