Description

A rare 18th-century portrait of Jeanne Antoinette Poisson, painted as a miniature on ivory and framed. This lovely depiction shows the young woman before she became Louis XV's favorite, known as "Madame de Pompadour" (1721-1764). This refined and faithful painting, rendered in delicate tones, depicts her in all the beauty of her youth as a period miniature from the middle of Louis XV's reign; an elegant miniature in very good condition, honoring the patroness of the arts--a rare portrait from this era that embodies all the charm of the 18th century, in very good condition and protected by its beautiful hand-crafted glass and a box frame with bronze trim.
