Description

Italian Stipo Atlante, Late 17th / Early 18th Century
A rare carved wooden Atlante figure from an Italian stipo (cabinet) dating from the late 17th or early 18th century. This sculpture served as a support for the cabinet's hinged top when it was open, a feature characteristic of prestigious Italian cabinets. The male figure, nude and powerfully muscular, is depicted in a tense pose, with his head thrown back and his arm raised toward his face, expressing the effort required to support the top. The hollowed-out reverse side attests to its original attachment inside the cabinet. A very beautiful Baroque sculpture with a deep mahogany-brown patina, displaying fine craftsmanship and harmonious age-related wear. Origin: Italy Period: 17th/18th century
Dimensions: 20 × 7 cm Condition: very good
