Description

Tapestry from the Brussels workshops of the Louis XV period. Very fine weave, shimmering color, and in very good condition. Allegorical scene depicting a country meal. This complete tapestry features borders that mimic the gilded frames of paintings. Probably from the workshop of Josse de Vos, after a design by Jean de Reyff (1700-1707). The overall view with its borders does not accurately represent the tapestry, which is complete and uncut; however, the image is distorted, giving the impression of a shape that is more square than rectangular. Our company guarantees that the tapestry is thoroughly cleaned, in good condition, and comes with its original hanging system. If necessary, we will provide details of any restoration work that has been performed. All our tapestries can be shown to you
