Description

We are pleased to present this elegant antique Italian side table dating from the mid-19th century. It features the stylistic and construction characteristics typical of the Louis-Philippe period. Crafted from fine solid walnut and veneer, this side table was traditionally used in antique shops as a sewing table. The tabletop lifts vertically via metal hinges and is supported on the left side by a brass locking rod. A mirror is recessed within the panel. Opening the tabletop reveals a compartmentalized interior, featuring a large central tray for fabrics and small side compartments designed to hold spools, needles, cosmetics, or jewelry. Below, there is a drawer with internal dividers for additional storage space for small items. The piece rests on four tall, slender, and finely turned legs; a shaped and
