Description

"The damaged Pier" is a painting by Willy Bogaert depicting a coastal landscape under a shifting sky. In the foreground, a partially destroyed wooden pier juts out into the water, while light reflects off the shore. The broad brushstrokes and soft tones of blue, beige, and ochre create a calm and melancholic atmosphere, characteristic of the artist's seascapes. Willy Bogaert was a Belgian painter known for his seascapes, landscapes, and coastal views. His work is marked by a keen sensitivity to light and the ever-changing sky. Through a free brushstroke and a subtle palette, he successfully captured the atmosphere of Flemish shores and landscapes, where nature always takes center stage. Provenance: private collection, Brussels. Painting dimensions: 29 x 32 cm. Panel.
